LEVATOMONO

Versatile, strong,
cost effective

LevatoMono is an innovative solution, comprised of a 20mm single layer of load-bearing porcelain stoneware, with excellent technical and aesthetic features. It represents the ideal product for the creation of raised floor areas in average/heavy load traffic conditions and is suitable for both residential and commercial outdoor areas. LevatoMono is economical, lightweight, frost resistant, anti-slip and fire-resistant.

Available in 600x600x20mm in three simulated ultra realistic timber finishes (TeknoTimber) and five simulated stone finishes.

The TeknoTimber tiles have simulated slats, giving the appearance of individual timber decking slats but on a continual anti-slip surface – the aesthetics of timber without colour fade or maintenance.

Balcony installation

These images show an installation (approx 34m²) onto a single ply membrane, pavers installed on paver support pads. Long cuts were completed with a wet saw, the cuts around the chimney breast were dry cut by angle grinder with a diamond blade.

CASE STUDY

TeknoTimber

Size 600mm x 600mm x 20mm

TeknoTimber is ideal for high traffic applications where the look of wood is preferred but where low maintenance and a consistent appearance, year after year is essential.

Made from 100% Porcelain Stoneware, TeknoTimber offers a high-tech alternative to both natural and composite timbers.

The marriage of Porcelain Stoneware technology with the natural beauty of timber, has produced a material with all the benefits and beauty of timber without the disadvantages; TeknoTimber is fire proof; needs no maintenance; will not stain; will not change colour or fade; and is extremely resistant to abrasion -offering massive over-life savings. Extremely high slip resistance and zero maintenance make it the perfect choice for outside dining; roof terraces and balconies; walkways and swimming pool areas.
